

Marvelous WATERMELON

Will Hales, a third generation farmer, grows watermelons on the sandy soils of the Eastern Shore.

-  Watermelon is 92% water. Watermelons are cousins to cucumbers, pumpkins and squash.
-  Maryland watermelons are available to eat from July through September.
-  Donald Hales was the 1st Maryland farmer to grow a seedless watermelon 30 yrs ago.
-  Many Maryland farmers grow watermelons. You can find Maryland-grown watermelons at farmers markets, grocery stores, and farm stands.

www.marylandfarmtoschool.org

MD Dept. of Agriculture, www.mda.maryland.gov